Food and medicine share roots

Everyday rice. Ingredients first.

Yakseokwon rice, ready to heat and enjoy

We select Ganghwa-grown rice and Korean grains, then cook them at our own facility on the island. Seven recipes feature ingredients such as lotus leaf, ginseng and lotus seed. Simply heat and enjoy, even on busy days.

The Yakseokwon story

Yakseokwon, rooted in Ganghwa

Food and medicine share roots

Food and medicine share the same roots: the idea of yaksik dongwon. We believe a daily meal is the closest way to care for our health. We select Ganghwa-grown rice and Korean grains, choose the other ingredients, then cook each recipe at our own Ganghwa facility. Enjoy carefully prepared multigrain rice easily at home.

Ganghwa Rice

Grown in Ganghwa: glossy, chewy and mellow.

Red Beans

Small red beans; gently sweet, soft and fluffy.

Glutinous Rice

Soft and sticky, binding the grains together.

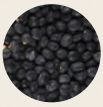

Sorghum

Reddish grains with a mild taste and firm bite.

Black Rice

Deep purple rice adds a mellow aroma and colour.

Black Soybeans

Black skin, green centre; nutty with a firm bite.

Brown Sticky Rice

Bran intact: brown-rice flavour and a sticky bite.

Barley

Springy grains with a mellow aroma and fibre.

Oats

Contains protein and fibre, with a nutty flavour.

Seven rice recipes, cooked in Ganghwa

Ganghwa-grown rice is combined with Korean grains such as black soybeans, red beans, brown rice, glutinous rice, barley, sorghum, oats and black rice. Their different textures, chew and flavours come together in each bowl. Grain blends vary by recipe, with ingredients such as lotus leaf, ginseng or lotus seed.
